| 10 | About & Outcome | Though Santali language has been listed in the Eighth Schedule of the Indian Constitution on December 22, 2003, no script has yet been made as a standard script for the Santali language. Due to this, different scripts are being used in different states. As a result, the pace of the development of Santali language seems to be slow. This is clearly visible in the field of Santali language and literature also. The reference books given in the curriculum are also available in four scripts only, due to which students have to face many difficulties. Understanding this problem well, the Santali department of our college organized a national level seminar for discussion on this topic and the Department was successful in it with great response. Renowned, knowledgeable and experienced resource persons named Dr. Suhridd Kumar Bhowmick, Dr. Naku Hansdah, Dr. Jatindra Nath Besra, Dr. Ratan Hembram presented their views and shared their experiences in great detail in the panel discussion. After the fruitful, valuable, effective and informative discussion it has been unanimously decided that 'Olchiki' script is the best script for Santali language, no other option can be better than this. This can give a new dimension to the pace of language development. An appeal has been made by both the resource persons and the Department of Santali of our college to all the Santali literature and language loving people to adopt and use the Olchiki script as their medium of reading, writing and instruction. |
